Hagman, Niklas RW TOR		65				22					20

Surpassed last year's 41 points despite missing 17 games. I'm thinking he could actually score 30 goa

Hainsey, Ron D ATL		81				6					33

Similar numbers for three season now, count on him for 35 to 40 points.

Halpern, Jeff C TB	52	7	9

Came back from a serious knee injury and was his usual low scoring self.

Hamhuis, Dan D NSH	82	3	23

Fourth season in five years with 20 to 27 points.

Hamrlik, Roman D MON	81	6	27

Without much power play time, his production is limited.

Handzus, Michal C LA	82	18	24

Salvaged a dreadful season with a solid month of March. His ceiling is 50 points.
Hansen, Jannik RW VAN 55 6 15

He'll never be a great scorer, but could work his way up to 40 points eventually.
Hanzal, Martin C PHO 74 11 20

Much like Mueller, didn't have a very good sophomore season. He doesn't have Mueller's upside, but
Harrold, Peter D LA 69 4 8

Harrold was expected to do what Quincey achieved.
Hartnell, Scott LW PHI 82 30 30

This is the kind of season we've been expecting for a while from Hartnell. It looks like he finally has ar
Havelid, Niclas D NJ X 78 2

Gone are his 30-point days.
Havlat, Martin LW CHI X 81 29

Reached career high in games played. Doubtful he'll reach 70 games next season.
Heatley, Dany RW OTT 82 39 33

Last year was considered an off year, let's consider it the lowest level production you can expect from
Hecht, Jochen LW BUF 70 12 15

Another huge disappointment in Buffalo despite the low expectations. Don't expect more than 40 poin

Hedman, Victor D TB?	0	0	0

He'll go to Tampa Bay if the Isles take Tavares. Often compared to Pronger and like him, Hedman co

Hejda, Jan D CLB	82	3	18

His job is to prevent the opponents from scoring and he does it very well.

Hejduk, Milan RW COL	82	27	32

Inconsistent throughout his career, he is settling into a 25-30 goal scorer.

Hemsky, Ales RW EDM	72	23	43

He has the talent to ascend to another level, 90 points, but needs a star player at his side to do it

Hensick, T.J. C COL 61 4 17

Doesn't look like he'll be fantasy worthy for a couple more years.
Higgins, Christopher C MON 57 12 11

A season to forget for Higgins who'll get back to the 25-goal range next season.
Hilbert, Andy C NYI X 67 11

A good checking line player who'll be happy to reach 30 points.
Holmstrom, Tomas LW DET 53 14 23

Second straight injury filled season, only worth a flyer as a late round pick.
Horcoff, Shawn C EDM 80 17 36

After scoring 50 points in 53 games last year, it was expected he would get back to the 70-point range
Horton, Nathan C FLA 67 22 23

Once thought he'd score 35 to 40 goals on a regular basis. Now, I barely see him hitting 30 the next c
Hossa, Marian RW DET X 74 40

Whether he re-signs with the Wings or goes elsewhere, he'll keep on producing. Odds are the Wings
Hudler, Jiri C DET 82 23 34

Lowest average ice time amongst top 180 scorers. He still has room for improvement with a larger rol

Hunter, Trent RW NYI 55 14 17

With the team improving Hunter has a shot at repeating his 25-goal, 51-point rookie season in 2009-1

Hunwick, Matt D BOS 53 6 21

He's not as good as his points-per-game suggest.

Huselius, Kristian LW CLB 74 21 35

I'm not a Huselius fan, he's too inconsistent so I'm not surprised by this kind of production and will nev
