For your listening pleasure - put it on your Ipod or just listen in on your computer! Dobber Nation appears on the 25th of every month, except December (Christmas). Let's talk some fantasy hockey!

Episode 23: March 25, 2011 - click to listen!

Brian Kom brings on our very own Justin Goldman to help grade and predict the performances of the NHL's masked men, including Sergei Bobrovsky, Kari Lehtonen, and Michal Neuvirth. He also lets us in on which AHL goalie could be next to make the jump to the NHL.

Jim Connelly, senior writer for US College Hockey Online (uscho.com) takes us through the top 10 candidates for college hockey's highest individual honour, the Hobey Baker award, and lets you know which player from that group is most likely to be the first to make their mark in the NHL.

The Columbus Dispatch's Aaron Portzline is going to tell you which players the Blue Jackets are counting on to make them contenders, especially on the blueline, and which players they might be writing off-- you'll be surprised to hear who could be on the trading block this offseason.

You can download the file in our Dobber Nation page (click HERE) or on ITunes

For your listening pleasure - Episode 23 (and all previous episodes) can be found via the "Radio Show" link in the menu on the left.