

Wondering what your plan of attack should be this summer? Preparing for a draft? Upset about some trades you made in the past? I'll weigh in with my thoughts on the interesting and important issues.

This week, I took a look at the team submitted to me by DobberHockey reader and member Brendan G (known on the message boards as 'teamramrod').

Written by Jeff Angus Wednesday, 02 June 2010 14:57 - Last Updated Wednesday, 02 June 2010 16:09 This team is STACKED for the future, especially on the blue line and in goal. The Icehawks th in 2009-10. I finished dead last in the league in 2008-09, and 10 would expect a top three or four finish with this group in 2010-11, and then some serious, serious dominance. To add to the embarrassment of riches, Brendan has accumulated the first three draft picks, and he plans on taking Taylor Hall, Tyler Seguin, and Jordan Eberle. Brendan wants to shop Halak, and now may be a good time with the uncertainty surrounding his future with Montreal. However, only move him if you get fair value. Don't settle for a downgrade in goal and a minor add-in. I have never seen a team with so much young talent before. Ever. I'm frankly surprised that you have been able to accumulate such an embarassment of riches. Even though you have been a bottom-feeder for two years, I still don't get it. Do any of your competitors read DobberHockey at all? Recent trades:

Ray Emery for Anze Kopitar, Ryan Suter, and the 11th overall pick second last over the past two seasons) is going to pay off, but do your part to speed up the process.

2) Give the GM who made the Emery/Kopitar trade a psychiatric exam.
3) Get ready to win often.
