

The Penguins have re-signed Pascal Dupuis for three years, worth $1.4 million per season.

Finally, an NHL player making an intelligent move. Just a few years after nearly ruining his NHL career with a holdout, Dupuis decides to stay in Pittsburgh for a fair price rather than explore the market. As a result, he should get 50 points this season and he'll have a shot at as many as 65. Dupuis owners can now start celebrating.