

August 08, 2007

Written by Dobber

Wednesday, 08 August 2007 02:20 - Last Updated Wednesday, 08 August 2007 02:58

Zach Hamill has been signed to an entry level deal. With the acquisition of Sobotka, though, I doubt Hamill will crack the lineup this year.

Oleg Tverdovsky is returning to Russia. He signed a deal with Salavat Yulaev Ufa

Luke Richardson has signed with the Ottawa Senators. He understands that he's just there in a limited capacity, more for his leadership and experience than anything else. Even for $500,000 a year, I can't help but think the Sens could have used that money later in the season as more breathing room in a trade. With this signing, Brian Lee may not make the team and I thought he was pretty much ready. The team took a step backwards here.